Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

It was really time that a red herring was dragged over the trail of California "reds." With the "ecenomy bloc" in full cry after the governor's relief set-up, and the governor himself so hard pressed that he threy a communistic gent named Plunkett to the pack, and with the majority of the state legislature, dividing its time between the budget debate and a discussion of whether or not the relief administration be given a thorough probing, the red herring makes its appearance. The governor produces some "confidential correspondence" between two underlings in the State Chamber of Commerce and demands of the legislature that it immediately investigate the state chamber. This is not especially clever because it is so obviously intended to distract attention from the monumental waste of state relief funds.

The governor who accepted $7,500 as a campaign contribution from the celebrated bond brokers, the McDonough brothers, of San Francisco, and hastily returned it when the transaction came to light, finds his delicate gorge rising when he discovers two practical officials of the state chamber have discussed in confidential letters methods of combatting some of the crackpot legislation which Lieutenant Governor Patterson and fellow radicals have proposed.

The letters outline bills referred to the Assembly labor and Capital Committee, lists committee members, dates set for hearings on various measures and instructions on how to oppose the bills. The governor in his virtuous wrath says in submitting the correspondence to legislative scrutiny "I am certain, in view of the facts now in your possession, that members of the senate and assembly, will be desirous of bringing into the open for the first time the wide operations of the state chamber which for many years has apparently operated solely as a "front" for special private interests whose sole objective has been to thwart the will of the people."

Brave words, indeed. But California is rapidly becoming acquainted with its governor. The state chamber of commerce, by and large, represents the tax payers. Whether the governor includes them or not, the tax payers are still the "people." The tax payers who foot the bill for the state's tremendous expenses. The "will" of the tax payers is to prevent an increase in taxes and if possible to reduce them. It is also the "will" of the tax payers to prevent governmental experiments in labor and capital relations which might disrupt industry, agriculture or commerce, and thereby prevent a return to prosperous conditions. The tax payers, as a matter of fact, constitute all the "people," because even the dust bowlers pay taxes in some form. It is perhaps true that the state chamber does represent the property owners of California, who pay the greater part of the taxes. But even so, if the bigger tax payers who, as a rule are also big employers of labor are relieved of some of their tax burden the way is opened to employment for many of the little tax payers, who only pay hidden taxes.

What ired the governor, of course, is the fact that the state chamber was prepared to deal practically with legislation affecting labor and capital. The CIO or AFL can bring all the pressure they can muster, above board or underground, to get legislation through, but we shall never hear a peep from Mr. Olson on that score. An investigation, if it could be started, would lead the public eye away from the vital subject of the governor's record breaking budget, and its huge relief expenditure proposals which the legislature is trying to prune. But senate leaders, both conservative Democrats and Republicans, fortunately, refuse to be diverted. The spot light is on the budget and they propose to keep it there until it is amended or adopted.

U.S. Guards to Protect Dam Workers

Garesio's Second Strike Proves Another Flop

The U. S. Army Department has authorized armed and uniformed United States guards for the Narrows dam construction job. Colonel I. E. Burks, supervising U. S. engineer in charge of all construction work in the west in which the Federal government is interested, stated yesterday that this decision was reached at a conference Tuesday, and authorization was obtained by long distance telephone from Washington.

There will be three shifts of guards under a sergeant. Both banks of the river will be patrolled. Guards will receive their uniforms and $1,800 a year, with an enlistment for two years with possible extensions. The sergeant will receive his uniform and $2300 a year.

NO LOAFERS ALLOWED

The guards will be instructed to keep out all loafers, hoboes, blanket stiffs and suspicious characters. The U. S. dam reservation will be freed of all idlers and non-workers.

At the Bonneville dam on the Columbia river, Col. Burks said, there have been stationed 26 armed guards and the work on that vast project has not been suspended for five minutes since it started. But throughout Washington and Oregon during the same period in lumber mills and shipping centers labor troubles and labor wars have thrown thousands of men out of employment, halted industries and agriculture, and caused the loss of millions of dollars in wages.

NO FREE STEWS

From now on the same system will be adopted for the $4,000,000 Narrows dam project. Labor racketeers, transit picket armies and assorted bums who flock to every labor disturbance for the free coffee and free stew provided by labor organizations at camps in the county roads, give the U. S. army guards a wide berth. While they like a little game of fox and hounds with local peace officers they are extremely chary of running afoul Federal guards.

Sheriff Carl Tobiassen and two or three deputies on Tuesday afternoon made the so-called pickets clean up their camp in the county road opposite the entrance to Narrows dam reservation and move on. He told them they were violating the law in obstructing the county road, in trespassing on government property, throughout which fifty no trespass signs had been posted, and finally were violating the county's anti-picketing ordinance.

With few exceptions the pickets loaded their blankets and cooking untensils, mattresses and other outdoor furniture into the cars and drove off willingly. One or two offered an argument but lost the debate and also moved away.

Wednesday morning anticipating that the so-called strikers might come back with reinforcements to offer a battle, Sheriff Tobiassen recruited 25 deputies, armed them with revolvers, sawed off shot guns, rifles, vomit gas and billy blubs and stood guard while approximately 70 men employed in the construction work at the dam site went back to work. No pickets, blanket stiffs or labor racketeers showed up. In addition to the sheriff's deputies, twelve highway patrolmen were present to see that traffic was not impeded on the highway.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE

Al Garesio, head of the local CIO organization, now a fugitive from justice charged with false arrest, has apparently pulled another labor boner. With only 28 CIOs voting to strike, out of a total of 98 men at work on the job, and very few of this minority of 28 willing to appear on the picket line, his second strike in Nevada County proves to be another flop. Last January, it will be recalled, Garesio pulled a strike on which at that time employed 240 vote of 23 CIOs on the Murchie mine

CIO And Other Labor Organizations At Dam Are Sued For $25,000

The Arundel Construction company and the E. L. Dickson company, contractors, engaged in building the $4,000,000 debris dam at the Yuba Narrows yesterday filed suit in the Nevada County court for $25,000 damages against the Congress for Industria Organization; American Federation of Labor, The Mine, Mill and Smelter orkers, Local 471; International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Local 137; International Operating Engineers, Local 3; Pile Drivers and Wharf Builders, Local 44; John Morgan, W. R. Mack, Patrick W. Clancy, J. H. Wagner, G. L. Adams, Fred Ayers, John Larsen, L. Esotoff, Harold Arrowsmith, Albert Click, Paul Owens, Mike Marvis, M. L Moreford, Stanley D. Behrbaum, J. Sutton, L. F. Benedict, A. A. Garesio, James Vasion, G. Fisk, C. Bruce, C. Bailey, R. M. Chandler, C. S. Phelps and 500 John Does.

It is alleged in the complaint that these organizations and individuals named in the suit, made no demands whatever upon the plaintiff contractors, and it is claimed that all employes were satisfied with the terms of their employment, respecting wages and hours of work and working conditions. None of their employes ever requested any of the organizations named as defendants to act as their bargaining agents.

The contractors charge that the defendants entered into a conspiracy to unionize the employes of plaintiffs and to compel them to join the defendant associations. In pursuance of this conspiracy, it is alleged, the defendants forcibly entered the site of construction work, armed with clubs and pieces of iron pipe, steel rods, monkey wrenches, pick handles and other dangerous weapons, and forcibly broke into the dormitory where employes were sleeping. and threatening violence forced all the men in the domitory to go outside. The employes, under guard, were then marched up the hill to the public highway, where they were temporarily left under guards. The defendants, it is then alleged, went back to the dam site and marched another group of employes up the hill to the highway, where by threat of violence they attempted to intimidate all the workers thus under guard, to enroll in the defendant CIO organizations.

The contractors also ask for a permanent injunction to restrain the defendants from doing directly or indirectly any of the following acts:

(1) Intimidating, threatening, molesting or coercing plaintiff in the performance of its contract with the

ROTARY HEARS SUPERINTENDENT SACTO. SCHOOLS

Charles Hughes, superintendent of Sacramento schools, was the speaker at the Rotary luncheon yesterday. Horace Curnow as chairman of the day, introduced the speaker, who is also a member of Sacramento Rotary.

Mr. Hughes gave an account of the action of the school directors in Sacramento in suspending a student, a girl about ten years of age, who refused to salute the flag in accordance with the school law of California, and for that matter the majority of the states.

The Civil Liberties League intervened, and though the child was kept in school for several weeks after the first offense, the school board finally suspended her. The case was presented in superior court and at the conclusion of the trial over which Judge Peter Shields presided, the child's parents won. The school directors then appealed to the third district Court of Appeals, and with the late Justice Plummer writing the opinion, the lower court was sustained in its decision. The school board then carried the case to the state supreme court, which reversed the decisions of the two lower courts and the case has now been appealed to the United Supreme Court, which thus far has failed to review any such case presented. The New York State Supreme Court in a case very similar to the Sacramento case has also sustained school boards in refusing to permit children who refuse to salute the flag from attending school.

Speaking of American schools generally, Mr. Hughes sharply contrasted the kind of education which youth receives in this country and that which they receive in totalitarian states. There boys from seven years up are trained to be soldiers and also to uphold fanatically whichever kind of totalitarian government is in power.

Mr. Hughes stressed the imporance of American education which developes the children, mentally, physically and morally, and while giving them every opportunity to learn of other systems of government than the democratic, teaches them to become patriotic and useful citizens.

Oscar Odegaard, chairman of a nominating committee, consisting of past presidents, offered the following directors in nomination: Clyde Gwin, Chester Scheemer, H. E. Kjorlie, Dick Lane, Irving Long, Charles Elliott and Art Innes. Added to these were two nominations made from the floor, Horace Curnow and Otis Brown.

County Employs 2459 Men In Its Mines

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the cross cut undertaken by Dr. Carl P. Jones and associates from the south bank of Deer Creek to the 400 level of the Fortuna shaft. Six men in two shifts are employed. It is expected to run a drift a short distance from the crosscut to intercept the Mountaineer vein which in times past proved profitable in ore production. The Black Prince vein it is expected will also be developed. This cross cut is running through an area adjacent to the Champion property. Both the Champion and Mountaineer properties are owned by Dr. Jones, who also recently acquired the Gold Tunnel claims.

Work in running a crosscut from the Murchie shaft into the North Banner country will not begin until the legislature has adjourned and mining interests know whether or not any of the pending bills, which may restrict or hamper their operation, have been enacted.

It is reported that important developments in the Spanish mine are under way.

A canvass of the mines in Nevada county reveals little change in employment figures published last month. According to the Nugget's monthly survey there are now 2,459 miners employed in the county with a payroll of $368,850 monthly.

STOCKTON HILL PROPERTY

Walter Woock is in charge of operations at the Stockton Hill mine south of Grass Valley. Ore of good mill value is being mined in development in the lower level of the shaft. It is stated ore is being stored for future reduction.

MELVILLE PROPERTY

Five drills continue to test ore values in the gravel near Columbia Hill. The company has increased its payroll to about 32 men. Headquarters are in the hotel in North San Juan where considerable improvement has been made to make comfortable quarters for the officials. Bramley L. Melvill is in charge of operations for the English company testing the large gravel holdings.

FORTUNA PROPERTY

J. M. Hoff has seven men drifting in the Black Prince workings of the Fortuna property at Nevada City's southwestern city limits. The property was purchased by Dr. C. P. Jones of Grass Valley several months ago and is now a portion of the Champion property.

Opinion vs. An Experiment

An 11-man Senate committee begins study this week of one of the administration's "noble experiments." The Senators will hear, during their study, just what the public thinks of the experiment. And from all indications, the public doesn't think much of it.

The experiment in question is the National Labor Relations Act, which, for more than three years, has been the monkey wrench in the wheels of industrial peace. It has been condemned by labor, management and the public alike. Its only defender has been the administration and a minority group of labor.

What the Senate Committee will have under consideration are several proposals to amend the Act. The proposals have been lying around Congress for many months, but pressure from the Act's defenders have kept the question closed to consideration.

Now it has been brought out into the open by start of public hearings on the amendments by the Senate committee.

Everyone—or almost everyone—hopes the hearings will result in correction of this poorly drafted device of business-labor regulation at this session of Congress.

But whatever hopes may have been raised by start of hearings, they are not helped by the apparent attitude of some Federal officials who still think the Act should be left alone. These officials have expressed this contrary attitude by leaving labor act amendments off the "must" list of legislation for this session.

In the face of almost unanimous labor, management and public demand for correction of the labor law, the blocking of emendment by these Federal officials is tantamount to saying: "the public be damned."—Contributed.

The Club In The Closet

Included among the almost innumerable provisions of the original AAA was an item giving the President of the United States power to issue $3,000,000,000 in "printing press money." In other words, the Chief Executive had authority to inflate the nation's money structure by simply ordering the government printing presses to start turning out more greenbacks.

Now the Congress is beginning to realize this is too broad a power to be left lying around Washington and wants to strip the President of this authority. The President refers to it as his "club in the closet." The Senate has called it a club that could be used to club economy to death.

Certainly this "emergency power" should be withdrawn. It is one cause (among many) for business uneasiness and economic insecurity for the nation.

It has been a long time since America burned its fingers on irredeemable greenbacks. The fiat money of the Civil War days is a good reminder, however. And so is the experience of the German people with its printing press money that followed the war. Remember? It took a bushel basket of marks to buy a loaf of bread.—Contributed.

Behind Bullet-Proof Glass

Reiterating his high-sounding dogma that "one people, one leader, one state," are solidly united for Nazi aggression, Adolf Hitler, in his most recent public utterances, has warned the rest of the world to keep out of his way. Yet surrounded by his own countrymen, and encircled by armed guards, Hitler has shouted his bold words behind bullet-proof glass!

That means, most significantly, that Hitler knows many Germans hate him, as they hate war. And that knowledge may stay the mad Chancellor's lust for conquest more surely than any threat of resolute foreign opposition. Of the millions of Germans who marched in 1914, every sixth man was left dead on the field. Nearly two million German homes were bereft of son, father or husband. And so, when Hitler menaces the world in the name of "one people and one leader," he speaks like a Chicago gangster, behind bullet-proof glass! And that revealing circumstance, strange though it may seem, may augur peace for Europe, rather than bloodshed. A leader who fears to face his own people—and resorts to such extraordinary measures to protect himself from an assassin's bullet—may well fear to lead them into battle.—Contributed.

FREIGHT RATE CUTS DEMANDED OF LEGISLATURE

By CLEM WHITAKER

The farmer and the shipper—the railway worker and the railway boss—have all joined hands at Sacramento in a spectacular legislative battle which promises to write a new book of rules and a new set of principles for California's vast transportation industry!

More to the point, the movement, if successful, will result in freight rate reductions which will save California shippers millions of dollars annually.

Focal point of the battle is Senate Bill 115, which would abolish artificial rate fixing policies, designed to protect high cost carriers, and would re-assert the simple principle of "the most service for the least possible cost" as the basic formula for establishing a sound rate structure.

The battle for the bill has as many unusual aspects as the "man bites the dog" classic of newspaperdom.

A seeming paradox, for example, is the fact that the railroads, in supporting the bill, are fighting for the right to charge less so that they can earn more! Under the present law, there have been repeated instances in which rail rates have been ordered increased, or proposed reductions enjoined, despite the protests of both railroads and shippers. And artificially high rates, the railroads insist, mean less freight, fewer hauls—and less railroad income—as well as higher costs to shippers.

Farmers—represented by the California Farm Bureau Federation, the Agricultural Council and other farm groups—also are fighting militantly for the new bill in an effort to gain the benefits of reduced shipping costs.

And for the first time during the 1939 legislative session, labor and management have found common ground and made common cause in supporting the transportation reform bil, with the railroad brotherhoods in the forefront of the battle.

Voicing the viewpoint of railway labor, Fred E. Reynolds, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, asserts:

"Inevitably, the welfare of the worker is linked with the welfare of his industry. Senate Bill 1115 would preserve for the public the cheapest and most efficient form of transportation in each instance, regardless of whether it was by rail, water or truck. It would end the present unsound, and uneconomic system which often requires a carrier to increase its rates, as a protection to less efficient carriers, and which has severey penalized the railroad industry. Enactment of this bill, making the lawful rate of the most efficient carrier the basis on which the Railroad Commission shall establish its minimum rate structure, will mean greater job security for rail workers and quicker recovery for the railroad industry".

The bill already has received Senate approval—by a vote of 30 to 4—and is now awaiting action in the assembly.

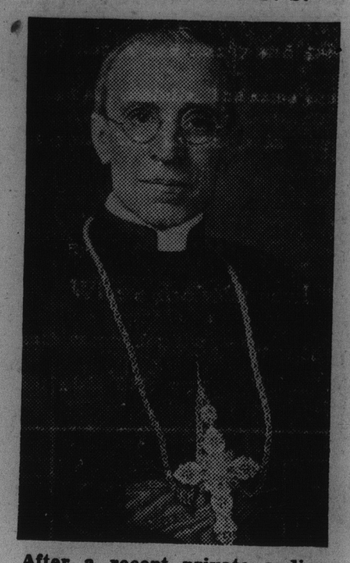
POPE BLESSES U. S.



After a recent private audience with Pope Pius XII, Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago stated that the new pontiff "considers the faithful back home among the dearest in the world." The pope imparted his apostolic blessing in English, specifying that it extended "to America and your families."

MISS TELEVISION

Miss Peggy Knapp, Jackson Heights, New York, was named Miss Television in a beauty contest held in Palm Beach recently. Judges selected their winner from televised reproduction.

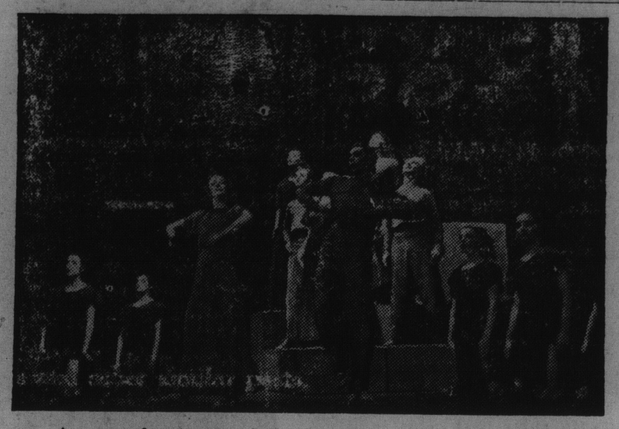
A STAR NO LONGER

Two reasons were given why Mike Klotovich, backfield ace, quit school recently at St. Mary's, depriving Coach Slip Madigan of one of his best men. Mike said he needed the money to support his parents. University officials stated that he suffered from "academic apathy." Here he is at work on a construction job in San Francisco.

$1,000,000 BELL

Using 11,600 cultured pearls, 366 diamonds and more than 26 pounds of silver, Japanese craftsmen of Tokyo have created this copy of the American liberty bell for exhibition at the New York World's fair. The bell is valued at $1,000,000 and required many months of work.

Mrs. Harold Hayley entertained Mrs. Harry E. McKee yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Hayley returned recently from a months stay in San Francisco where she went in the interests of the health of one of her children.



A scene from one of the creations of the Humphrey-Weidman modern dance group which will be seen in the Sacramento Memorial Auditorium Tuesday evening, April 18, under Ware and Hazelton management.

MODERN DANCES AT AUDITORIUM SACTO. APR. 18

If it were necessary to describe the Humphrey-Weidman repertoire with a single word, "contemporary" would do the trick.

For these exciting modern dancers, who will give their only concert of the season in Sacramento on April 18 in the Memorial Auditorium under the management of Ware and Hazelton, find their dance material in every corner of our present world, whether it be a set of New Yorker drawings by James Thurber, a Fourth of July celebration, the latest fashions in gas masks, the convoluntions of lady evangelists, or even the theatre itself. Exoticsim finds no place in a Humphrey-Weidman program. They bring dances of today to the people of today.

Ten years ago, when Doris Humphrey and Charles Weidman began to compose dances for their own group, they decided to free their work from the influences of European ballet and Oriental movement, in which they had both been trained, so as to escape techniques and subject matter foreign to this country.

Instead, they turned to the American scene. They wanted to interpret a robust, rugged America, an America that moves at a swift, breath taking tempo, a country that loves to laugh at its own foibles.

"My dance," says Miss Humphrey, "is composed as an expression of life as I see it today."

"We must make of the dance," says Mr. Weidman, "a strong, living art that touches us powerfully as we are today. We must be part of it, merge with it."

That they have been successful is echoed in such critical remarks as this from Columbus, Ohio: "We discovered in the performance exciting proof that we have in America a modern dance and dancers constructively original, enormously vital, and rich in potentialities."

Tickets for the Humphrey-Weidman concert Tuesday evening are on sale at the Ware-Hazelton box office in Ye Music Shoppe.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Deschwanden of the Banner road section had as Easter Sunday guests, Mrs. Deschwandens sister, and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Kistle and son and grandson; daughter, Vernie Deschwanden, Mrs. Kutrz and daughter, Dorothy, and C. Sisson, all of Sacramento.

Boy—"I don't want this tonic."

Boy—"Well, the directions say it's for adults and I've never had them."

WHAT SUGGESTION CAN DO

Did any one ever say to you, "Aren't you feeling well? You look tired." Then all of a sudden you do feel tired. The question was put into your mind and suggested to you that you were tired.

Good and bad ways to think can be put into our minds therefore the mothers and fathers should be careful what they say and suggest to the children.

Never say before your child that he looks tired and he may have a headache. This will make him see that you are worried about him, and he will worry and make himself worse. Many mothers help to make their child sickly or nervous. Never discuss these conditions before him. If you think your child is really tired put him to bed and tell him that a nap and rest will make him feel better.

If he is ill, he will probably go to sleep. Keep other children away from him. When he wakes let him amuse himself quietly. If he is not tired or sick he will not want to stay in bed and amuse himself. Its no fun to stay in bed during the day. He won't try that trick again; no doubt he wanted attention.

In 'Holy Land' Exhibit at Fair

HOSPITAL ASSN. SIGN UP WITH CALIF. DOCTORS

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Contract agreements with the three great non-profit hospital associations of California were reported today by California Physicians' Service, clearing the way for prompt presentation to the public of a voluntary, low cost, monthly prepayment plan for medical, surgical and hospital care.

The three hospital associations are the Intercoast Hospitalization Insurance Association, with headquarters in Sacramento; the Insurance Association of Approved Hospitals group in and surrounding the San Francisco bay area and the Associated Hospital Service of Southern California, with headquarters in Los Angeles.

Formal signing of the contracts agreed upon was set for this week and the next step in the plan of the licensed doctors of medicine in California to enable employed and other groups to secure medical, surgical and hospital care by the doctors and hospitals of their own choice will be signing of contracts with the groups of patients, or beneficiary members.

Signing of the hospital contracts will make available to the beneficiary members the services of approximately 80 per cent of the hospitals in California, excluding government-owned institutions and those which do not provide full hospital service. California Physicians' Service officials stated, however, that all other hospitals will be welcomed into the comprehensive medical, surgical and hospitalization plan provided their standards of operation are approved.

With more than 4,700 licensed doctors of medicine in California now professional members of California Physicians' Service, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president, said the goal will be 100 per cent membership of licensed doctors of medicine and of approved hospitals in order to give the broadest selection to beneficiary members.

Hospitals included in the contracts to be signed with California Physicians' Service include W. C. Jones Memorial Hospital of Grass Valley.

TWELVE RATTLERS IN DYNAMITED DEN

J. W. Morehead, who recently built a new home about a mile north of town near the Tannery ranch, near Camptonville, has discovered what was considered an extinct rattlesnake den, and so far this year has killed twelve rattlers. It has been there since early days, but many years ago some local men dynamited it and thought that they eradicated it, but evidently left just enough to make a new start.

Deer seem to be quite plentiful in this section, several groups of them are seen frequently between this place and Dobbins.

Professor—"If fire broke out in this wonderful are gallery and you had time to save only five pictures, which five would you save?"

Art Student — "The five nearest the door."

FARMERS INVITE DIES TO PROBE WESTERN 'ISMS'

SAN FRANCISCO, April 13.—Agriculturists of California, meeting in Sacramento last Wednesday, April 5, made two requests which they forwarded to the State Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors for action. They want the California Agricultural Pro-rate Act retained on the law books of the state, and they want Congressman Dies and his investigating committee to come west to investigate some of our own particular brand of "isms".

L. K. Marshall, Lodi grower and chairman of a special committee to study the prorate act, reported that he had circularized more than 7,300 farmers in California, and that the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the prorate act. Furthermore, they want the administration of the act to remain with a commission, of farmers, rather than have it transferred to the Department of Agricuture. Minor changes to improve the act are embodied in S. B. 822, according to Marshall. The committee voted to endorse the bill.

The Dies committee, which has been investigating un-American activities in Washington will be invited to move the scene of its activities to California, if the State Chamber Board of Directors look with favor upon the Agricultural Committee's recommendations. Members of the committee attending the meeting were unanimous in urging that this invitation be sent.

A proposal to place the growers of agricultural crops on the same plane as labor in the matter of liens against processors, was rejected. The question was on the approval of A. B. 1278, which wouud give growers a prior lien, along with labor liens, on the products of their endeavors, when in the hands of processors and canners. A committee of farmers was appointed to draw up a more equitable bill.

Recommendations was also made to oppose any attempt to transfer the Employment Service from the Department of Labor to the Social Security Board.

Recommendations of the Agricultural Committee will be presented to the State Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors, at its meeting in Los Angeles, April 21.

BEAR CHASES MAN THROUGH TUNNEL

CAMPTONVILLE, April 12.—With the oncoming of spring, wild animal life is coming forth, in fact a little too much so for Leonard L. Bishop, an employe of the Joubert hydraulic mine, near here. While cleaning out a ditch a few days ago, Len noticed a small cub bear, and though he would try to make friends with the little fellow, when mama bear appeared on the scene and resented his friendship and gave him chase. Len is a young man with fairly good legs and wind, and lost no time in making his escape, looking back several times, mama bear was still after him, he went through a tunnel, looked back, the bear still after him so he stepped on the gas, looked back no more and escaped from his angered mama bear. His moral from this experience is not to try to be friendly with a bear.

BALL MILL RECONDITIONED

The ball mill of the Indian Valley mine which was burned when the plant went through a fire two years ago, was brought to the Miners Foundry Monday and it is expected the local company will recondition the mill. The foundry has already reconditioned a lot of other machinery for the mine company. The Indian Valley mine is in Plumas county.

Mr. Newlywed — "There's something wrong with this steak, dear."

Mrs. Newlywed—"There shouldn't be. I did burn it a little, but I rubbed vaseline on it right away."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

By JEAN MARTZ

A tennis tournament is being played at the high school by the boys. Eddie Doolittle as head of the committee arranged the tournament. Most of the singles games in the first round have been played off and the following boys were victorious: McCarthy, Martin, Doolittle, and Tobiassen. Two sets of doubles have been played. The winners of these were Martin and Ruth, McCraney and Doolittle. Tennis is very popular and there is a large signup.

BAND TO PLAY AT DANCE

The band is preparing a program to play at the Chamber of Commerce dance on Saturday night. A fine program has been arranged by Mr. Smith. The following selections will be played: Sasketchewan, overture; Cossack invocation; novelty number; Pop Goes the Weasel; Legioneirs on Parade and Vanguard March. They may play Honor Band.

CHORAL MUSIC

On Wednesday night twenty five of the members of the choruses sang for the University Club at the Rector home.

The following songs were sung by the whole group: Kentucky Babe; Kathryn's Wedding and Cousin Jedediah. A small number of the girls from girls' chorus sang Blue Skies. The chorus was then served refreshments by the hostess.

The choruses may sing at the Chamber of Commerce dance on Saturday night. They have learned a new patriotic song entitled, "God Bless America" and they may sing it. The girl's chorus has learned Old Mother Hubbard. Five Little Piggies, and Sing a Song of Six Pence from the nursery ryhme suite. The choruses have been much in demand lately and Mrs. Libbey has been very busy.

FOUNTAIN IN COURT

The fountain for the court at the high school is under construction. The blue tile pool has been finished but the bird bath has not been erected in the center as yet. The fountain will be completed for the junior prom and all the students are pleased to see the improvement in the school.

SENIOR FARCE

The senior farce cast has been very busy practicing under the direction of Mr. Burke. The cast has practiced only the first act but they all know their parts and practice is progressing very rapidly. Mr. Hobbie has charge of the stage setting and lighting effects. Virginia Carney is acting as prompter for the play. The play is scheduled to be given May 12.

JUNIOR PROM

The committees for the junior prom have been meeting regularly and plans are forming rapidly. Much publicity has already been posted around the school and the prom will be very well attended by the students. The hall will be decorated beautifully. Joseph and Carter's orchestra has been hired for that night. The prom will be given the 21st of April. Margie Clark is president.

Tom Sharkey Weightlifter in Pageant

Triplets Celebrate Fourth Birthday

The Van Ardoy triplets, Caesar, Franklin and Conrad (front to rear) gave a party recently for the DeMellier triplets, Ann, Betty and Carol, (front to rear) at the Roosevelt, Long Island, home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Caesar L. Van Ardoy. The occasion was the fourth birthday of the Van Ardoys. The girls are children of Mr. and Mrs. George DeMellier of Wantagh, L. I.

Little Doctor of Collander Goes Visiting

Eggs Go Modern for Easter Time

Colored eggs are as popular as ever this Easter, and children can decorate them with an unending variety of designs. This youngster has a whole parade of pets and other designs in decals for transfer to the eggs. While her mother looks on she dips the design in water, slides off the backing-paper onto the egg and smooths it with a cloth. It's art made easy.

GARESIO'S SECOND

men. In April last year this shoestring also proved a failure. The National Labor Relations Board regarded Garesio's strike as a phony and refused to give the strikers any assistance. Almost on the anniversary of Garesio's first strike failure, he has agitated and incited another strike which also is a total loss. In baseball parlance Garesio's score is two strikes, no runs.

ANOTHER GARESIO FAILURE

One reason Garesio's strikes miss fire, is that most of his own following had rather be earning real money than going on relief which is still not large enough to make idleness attractive to upstanding, industrious citizens. For instance his strike a year ago found miners in this county earning an average of $5 a day, the highest wage paid miners in California. His strike at the Narrows dam found miners receiving $7.20 a day for jack hammer work, which most of the men regarded as very good pay indeed. The wages at the damsite are fixed in the contractors bid by the U. S. government. His attempt to reduce hours from 48 to 40, would have virtually ruined the contracting firm if he could have made his strike a success.

GARESIO DODGES JOHN LAW

Another reason the strike fizzled and went out, was the fact that all the leaders are in trouble. Garesio is now busy dodging arrest. "Red" Adams languishes in the county jail on charge of false arrest, a regular boarder now, while a year ago he was just a transient guest. "Red" Adams, head of the Boca CIO organization, had the misfortune to meet with "Red" McCulla, AFL organizer near the dam site reservation gate, just before Adams was arrested. "Red" McCulla invited the other "Red" to single combat but the latter declined and tried to start his car. "Red" McCulla then gave "Red" Adams a terrific poke through the open car window.

McCULLA ON WARPATH

"Red" McCulla arrested a few days ago in Grass Valley, paid a fine for drunkenness Wednesday and was released. McCulla, operating a power shovel at the dam site, was one of the highest paid workers there, and resented having a strike pulled which threw him out of a good job. It is reported that he is now looking for other CIOs.

John Galbraith, secretary of the Boca CIOs, John Morgan international organizer for the CIO, and Jesse Sutton, secretary of the CIO dam workers, are all in jail on felony charges of false arrest, arising from the forceful emptying of the bunk houses last Friday morning, when all workers on the job were escorted from the dam site to the top of the hill by CIO strikers armed with billy clubs and other weapons.

The shoe string organization of the CIO, deprived of the leadership o fthese daring spirits, seems to have become demoralized and scattered. Collecting dues, for instance has become a difficult and hazardous task.

On Wednesday a San Francisco attorney named Gladstein, on behalf of the CIO prisoners, called on District Attorney Stoll. Gladstein was unable to offer his clients much comfort. The false arrest charges are well substantiated by available evidence and District Attorney Stoll showed no disposition to compromise them for Mr. Gladstein. All the prisoners are held under $1,000 bail and thus far no overtures to bail them out have been made.

John Morgan, L. G. (Red) Adams, and Jess Sutton charged with false imprisonment, a felony, in the recent disturbance at the Narrows dam site were brought before Judge Miles Coughlin yesterday morning for arraignment. They will appear before Justice of the Peace C. Morehouse of Grass Valley next Tuesday morning at ten o'clock for their preliminary hearing. Bail was reduced from $2,500 to $1,000.

FOUND GUILTY OF PETTY LARCENY

Danny Matthews was adjudged guilty of petty larceny by Judge George L. Jones for appropriating to his own use funds contributed for boxing bouts. Matthews through his attorney Harry W. McKee asked for probation, the matter was heard by Probation Officer A. W. McGagin yesterday.

George Carey, who has spent several months in San Francisco. arrived in Nevada City Monday evening. His brother, Andrew Carey who is recovering from an injury to his hand, will come down from Alleghany in a few days and go to their mining property on Mt. Oro.

COUPLE WILL CELEBRATE 60TH YEAR WEDDED

A. Blumenthal hale and hearty 93 year old Nevada City pioneer. now of San Francisco, did not feel able to accept an invitation to attend the anniversary of Oustomah Lodge of Odd Fellows of which he had been a member 66 years, on April 26. Mr. and Mrs. Bulmenthal are celebrating their sixtieth wedding anniversary on April 20. He became a member of the local lodge on April 15, 1873 and married Mrs. Blumenthal April 20, 1879.

With family members Mr. and Mrs. Blumenthal made a one day visit in Nevada City last fall and visited a number of friends, but he felt the extra trip and celebration of his wedding anniversary would be too much of an effort.

Mr. Blumenthal had a clothing establishment in the building where the Grissel and Dolan store is now located and later moved into the building occupied by the Morning Union. He sold his store to his clerk the late Joe Fleming and partner Frank Snell and moved from here about 50 years ago.

EXPLORER SCOUT TROOP PLANS LARGE PROJECT

The Exlorer Scout Troop headed by Craig Davis, senior patrol leader, and his group of officers known as the Board of Governors has planned extensive improvements on the local scout hall. The first and foremost of these will be the landscaping of the ground directly in front of the building by planting a lawn and erecting a rock wall between the road and the proposed lawn. Also by the erection of a flag pole and building a grape arbor to one side of the building. The rock wall will be made of petrified wood gathered from nearby hydraulic diggings. The primary work of this project will be carried out by the Explorer scouts and Cubs.

A scout mobilization will be called on April 30th, Sunday morning between the hours of nine and ten. The object of this will be to see how many scouts can respond for emergency service at short notice. The troop with every member present first will be awarded a banner. The scouts will then proceed to the park and for the balance of the morning will work on projects assigned and supervised by the older scouts. A dinner will be served between twelve and one followed by a short recess. From two till four an athletic contest will be held between all scout individuals. The scout making the highest number of points will receive a medal, next there will be four cash prizes. Chief of these events will be the model aviation contest of which rules will be published at a later date. Harry F. Gouge, Jr, is scout master of the Explorers Troops.

CLAMPATRIARCH COMING TO NOR. SAN JUAN EVENT

Adam Lee Moore, Antenarian Clampatriarch of E Clampus Vitus, is still a troupe, according to a letter received from him by Clyde Gwin, Noble Grand Humbug of that order at Nevada City. Moore resides at 1,600 Fall Street, San Francisco, and his hundredth birthday was celebrated by the Clampers of Northern California at Clampers Day on Treasure Island February 25 of this year.

His troupe of twelve men every one over 70 years, and known as the Old Folks at Home, are scheduled to put on a show at the bay city on April 18 and 19. Their soprano, Eva Holmes, Moore says, is 84 years young. Previous showings are said to have drawn full houses.

April 19 has been designated Clampers' night and will no doubt be featured.

Clampatriarch Moore instituted the William Bull Meek Chapter at Nevada City on April 2 of last year. A feature of the ceremonies was a tour of the Grass Valley-Nevada City section in a "coach and six" just as the origanal William Bull Meek had traversed the same roads in days of 49.

Conspicious in his tall "plug" beaver, he astounded fellow Clampers by the alacrity with which he negotiated the high stage coach seat unassisted. Of course he was only a mere 99 then; he remarks that his troupers are as spry as he.

Clampers will be interested to know that Clampatriarch Moore expects to help "bring light" to the historic old town of North San Juan, when William Bull Meek chapter puts on a celebration about the middle of May to mark the advent of electric lights to the once booming old camp.

The resumption of hydraulic mining is expected to bring back the old days of prosperity, and citizens of the town expect the celebration to mark, indeed, the dawning of a new business era. Humbug Gwin says the theme will be the roistering old days of '49—the Clampers should be the right agency and North San Juan the ideal environment to accomplish that.

Gwin is planning to give the Clampatriarch and other Clamper officials a "coach and six" ride over the 16 miles between Nevada City and North San Juan.

The many friends of Mrs. Kate Sullivan (Aunt Kate) of French Corral, will be sorry to learn she is quite ill in the county hospital. She was moved from her home in French Corral early this week that she might have care for a severe cold.

MRS. GOLDSMITH PRESIDENT N. C. UNIT A. A. U. W.

The Nevada County Unit of the American Association of University Women held its April meeting at the home of Miss Margaret Rector on Wednesday evening with Mrs. John Cowley, president, presiding. Little, corresponding secretary; Miss Helen Chapman, recording secretary and Mrs. William Durbrow member executive committee. These candidates were unanimously elected.

Following the business meeting a program, special time and refreshments were enjoyed. Mrs. Carl Libbey presented a choral group of high school students who rendered a number of selections most delightfully. Following the chorus Mr. and Mrs. Libbey accompanied on the piano by Miss Mary Libbey sang several duets most beautifully.

This evening at eight o'clock the International Relations study group of the club will meet for discussion at the home of Mrs. H. M. Leete on Prospect Hill.
